

USDA Climate Hubs: Communicate science-based climate change information and tools so managers can make decisions on working landscapes.

Outcome: Sustainable and productive forests, rangelands, and agricultural lands in all ownerships that are better adapted to the changing climate.

Website

<https://www.climatehubs.oce.usda.gov/northwest>

- Vulnerability assessments
- Educational resources
- Decision Support systems
  - Tools & Data visualization

Seedlot Selection Tool assists foresters choose appropriate seed-lots for reforestation considering current and future climate change.

<https://seedlotselectiontool.org/>

Twitter

@USDAClimateHubs

USDA United States Department of Agriculture Northwest Climate Hub

Search

Climate Hubs Partners Educational material Regional Assessments Regional Data & Research Tools About Us

Home » Northwest Hub

Northwest Hub Welcome Note

The Northwest Climate Hub encompasses Alaska, Idaho, Oregon, and Washington. The purpose of the Hub is to deliver science-based knowledge and practical information to farmers, ranchers, forest landowners, and Native American tribes that will help them to adapt to climate change.

○ ● ○ ○ ○

Northwest Hub

Corvallis, OR

Popular Topics:

- Northwest Vulnerability Assessment
- Tools
- Intermountain Adaptation Partners
- Sign up to receive email updates

Choose plant material that is adapted to current and future climates

Karen Launchbaugh
Professor and Director of the UI Rangeland Center
University of Idaho

